R.I.D.E ALONG WITH ECHO

Echo is working to build a more diverse, inclusive, and equitable workplace for our entire team. In 2021, we established our R.I.D.E framework to help create a culture that values transparency and accountability and offers resources to help ensure our employees and communities can thrive.

Learn more about R.I.D.E with Echo's Sharmila Fowler-Pos, Head of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion during our Handshake event on March 10. Register here.

IN-PERSON RECRUITING RETURNS

No doubt: the last three years have been challenging for all of us. A bright side of 2022? We're back on campus meeting loads of eager, talented students! We're delighted to be a part of these events and are still looking for more ways to expand our engagement with student organizations at new and legacy institutions alike.

Even though this Spring's career fairs are nearly done, students can still connect with us thru Handshake (like our recent IT Lunch 'n Learn and our upcoming DEI event). If you have a great idea for us to engage with students, shoot us an email at campus@echo.com.

2022 INTERNSHIP APPLICATIONS STILL AVAILABLE

Looking to gain hands-on experience in sales, operations, finance, or other in-demand fields between your classes? Want to get paid and spend your summer in beautiful Chicago (the answer is yes!)?

Applications for summer 2022 internships are still available. Applications are reviewed on a rolling basis, so submit yours as soon as possible! Apply now!

ECHO CEO'S INTERVIEW WITH LOGISTICS MANAGEMENT

Doug Waggoner, CEO, discussed logistics, inflation, the labor market, and supply chain opportunities in 2022 during a recent interview with Jeff Berman at Logistics Management. If you're preparing for an interview at Echo or just need a primer on third-party logistics, put this on your reading list.
